

Andreas Mahler is Professor of English Literature and Literary Systematics at Freie Universität Berlin. His main fields of research are early modern English literature, literary theory, comedy, and the carnivalesque. His publications include books, handbooks and edited collections on early modern verse satire, Shakespeare's subcultures, spatial studies, the city, and the gangster film.