

Philosophies of Time and Nature

Content

Editorial Preface

Matthias Fritsch (Montreal): Preface

Zang Fengyu (Beijing): Preface

I. Time and Nature

1. Karyn Lai (Sydney): Embedded Agency in Early Chinese Philosophy: Time, Place, and Orientation
2. Zhao Tingyang (Beijing): The Humanized Nature and the Reversed Time
3. Hans Feger (Berlin): "The Nature is Republican". Nature and Freedom in Kant and Schelling
4. Matthias Fritsch (Montréal): Indigenous Accounts of Spiraling Time

II. Nature and Responsibility

5. Stefan Gosepath (Berlin): What do We Owe Future Generations?
6. Mario Wenning (Sevilla): The Question of Ecological Guilt: Responding to Ecocide in China and Europe
7. Franziska Dübgen (Münster): African Environmental Ethics and Its Ontological Foundations
8. Wang Ge (Berlin): Ethics of Motherhood in Chinese Traditions

III. Nature and Culture

9. Mathias Obert (Taipei): Japanese Gardens: Time of Letting – Time of Growth
10. Wen Bing (Beijing): The Great Wall and Time
11. Li Kelin (Beijing): Season and History. Guo Xi's Expression of Time in his Painting Practice
12. Hiroshi Abe (Kyoto): A Japanese Perspective of the Mind-Body-Land Connection
13. Zhuofei Wang (Kassel): Stepping-out-of-Oneself: An Intercultural Dialogue on the Power of Things

14. Fabian Heubel (Berlin): Auge und Atem. Ist ein weicher Weg der Modernisierung möglich?

IV. Time and Interreligious Dialogue

15. Ryosuke Ohashi (Kyoto): “Nature” and “God” - Some Commonalities and Contrasts between the Tea Ceremony and the Christian Mass

16. Ignacio Sepulveda (Sevilla): Spirituality and Society: A Way to Search for the Common Good

17. Raquel Bouso (Barcelona): Resacralization of the Cosmos in a Post-secular Age. Buddhist and Christian Response

Bio-Bibliography

Name Index